Rabbi Hillel Lavery-Yisraeli

Recently I happened to listen to a lecture about successful business leadership. There was a lot of emphasis on effective time management, which is definitely something they stress when training you for the rabbinate. This lecture said that one should have clear short-term and long-term goals in mind, towards which one should work. The successful leader, in the lecturer's eyes, avoids doing tasks of low priority which don't lead directly to the goal's fruition; those tasks should instead be deleted if possible, or delegated to "a person whose time is worth less than one's own," or, as a last resort, deferred until the high-priority tasks have been completed.

This notion that tasks of low importance should be delegated to people whose time is worth less than one's own was offensive to my Jewish sensibilities. Who are we to judge the value of someone else and compare it to our own? As the Talmud says, "Who is to say that your blood is redder than theirs?" True, if there is a task which one person is uniquely qualified for and another task which requires less expertise, it would probably be the most effective to let the expert handle the complicated matter. But this must not be done with the condescending attitude of "their time is worth less than mine". Everyone's time and energy deserves respect. And we surely cannot decide on someone's value by the amount of zeros in their salary. The most important people in ensuring humanity's successful continued existence, after parents and rabbis, are school teachers. And we all know about the long, never-ending hours teachers put in to their work beyond their classroom hours. Yet they are paid much less than so many less-essential professionals.

In the lecture, success was defined in terms of dollars and cents. They were, of course, talking about business success. There was another kind of success, far more important in my mind, that was being neglected: human success.

Judaism teaches us from the cradle to have a global outlook. We don't just measure worth in terms of dollars and cents. We constantly remind ourselves that we have to look out for everyone else, and that no matter where we work or for whom, we "answer to a Higher Authority" – our moral sensibility.

Remember the news item published a few months ago about the purse purchased at one of those mega-chains, that had a note hidden inside it from one of the horribly mistreated factory slaves being forced to produce that merchandise? The ease of information access available today allows us to know so much more about where our purchases are being sourced and to make appropriate ethical decisions. Most of us would prefer not to save a few cents when that is directly supporting a network of child slaves on the other side of the world. We don't want to buy clothes made by children for children.

Summer is the time when our calendar marks the destruction of our grand spiritual world of old, Temple-era Jerusalem, accompanied by the genocide and exile of our people by the Romans. Tradition tells us that our spiritual world was destroyed because of lack of care for people. It's our responsibility to rebuild our spiritual world through over-emphasizing concern for others. As summer allows us to enjoy more time with our families, we should think about the families on the other side of the globe, and remember that each action of ours has a global effect, whether beneficial or detrimental.

But let's conclude on a hopeful note. Remember way back when people used to be able to bare skin and lie around to sunbathe, without having to worry about using sunblock? Many of you will remember what I do from when I was younger, when they announced (in 1985) that a horrific hole was developing in the ozone layer. This was directly linked to people's use of aerosol deodorant cans was directly involved in creating a horrifically dangerous hole in that ozone layer. We suddenly saw actual, physical evidence that a small action of mine here could have drastic measurable effects half way around the world! And yet, when that problem was identified, the world, perhaps surprisingly, reacted in a positive way. An international treaty was reached in 1986, at first greatly reducing, and later eliminated completely the production of CFCs. Today, all the countries in the world have signed that treaty! In 2003 scientists reported that the depletion of the ozone layer was slowing down, and just last year, in 2016, it was announced that actual healing was being noticed. It is estimated that the ozone layer will be back to 1980 levels in 30 or so years.

Rabbi Nachman is quoted as saying, "If you believe it is possible to damage, believe also that it is possible to repair." Let's both be optimistic, and work hard at improving the world we will be leaving to our children.

Beth Jacob has been a busy place over the past few months, with many simchas, holidays, meetings, and events. In particular, I want to highlight two pivotal events that bode well for the shul's reinvention. First, the well-attended community meeting, where you made insightful comments, asked probing questions about where we stand and where we're headed, and offered visions and suggestions for the future. And second, the most successful lottery night in the history of our congregation, where we raised $65,000! And we did it thanks to the devotion and hard work of our wonderful honouree and dedicated volunteers.

On the basis of your comments at the community meeting, as I wrote in the follow-up letter sent out after Shavuot, the Board has formed five new committees. The Board encourages congregants who are interested in joining a committee or contributing to its activities to contact the committee chair or liaison at the email listed.

1) Membership: This committee will focus on supporting new memberships, as well as strengthening relationships with our existing and incoming members. The Board liaison for our membership committee is Judith Dworkin. Feel free to contact her at judith.dworkin@gmail.com.

2) Board Development: In the short term, the committee, made up of Tanis Hall, Dan Levy, and Matthew Ogus, will serve as the nominating committee for the incoming Board, to be approved at our AGM. Once the slate for the new Board is finalized, the committee will focus on Board development activities. If you have questions or concerns related to this mandate, please get in touch with me at president@bethjacobsynagogue.ca.

3) Real-Estate / Building & Structure: This committee's focus is determining options for use of our building and property, and making recommendations to the Board on these matters. The Board liaison for this committee is Benson Honig, who can be reached at bhonig@mcmaster.ca.

4) Spirituality: This committee's objective is to bring more spirituality to our services and to our shul. It will focus on meaningfulness, connection, and community, on finding ways to ensure that rituals and traditions touch our hearts and souls. The chair of this committee is Nessa Olshansky-Ashtar, who can be reached at nessa@interlynx.net.

5) Marketing and Communications: In-reach and outreach -- increasing engagement in synagogue programs and enhancing Beth Jacob's profile in the community -- are the committee's goals. No Board member has undertaken to chair or serve as liaison for this important committee. If marketing and communications is an area where you have expertise or experience, our community needs your help; please email me at president@bethjacobsynagogue.ca.

As Rabbi Tarfon teaches in Pirkei Avot, "The day is short, and the task is great. ...you are not required to complete the task, but you are not at liberty to refrain from participating." The Board looks forward to working with the new committees, along with the existing ones, on ensuring the congregation's continued vitality and sustainability. Together, we can meet the challenges facing us, we can grow, we can thrive.

A word from THE CANTORCantor Eyal Bitton

There is a saying that if you want to make God laugh, tell God your plans. Just over eight years ago, I had no idea that I would leave Toronto and come to live in Hamilton. On August 1, 2009, I had the honour of becoming cantor of Beth Jacob Synagogue. It wasn't just a congregation that my wife and I were joining; we were also entering a community. Michèle and I were struck by how warm and welcoming people were.

We made wonderful friends in this community and these friendships are what we will miss most when we leave. The congregants and members of the community became extended members of our family. As your cantor, it was a privilege and a deeply meaningful experience to be a part of your life cycle events. Sometimes, I had the pleasure of taking part in your simchas -- baby-namings, brit milahs, conversions, aufrufs, weddings, and b'nei mitzvahs. Other times, I had the difficult and humbling honour of taking part in your moments of sadness and grief. Each experience was a unique and significant moment in my role as a cantor of this lovely community and in my life as well.

Not all these moments were about being there for you. It was a heartwarming experience for Michèle and me to see the outpouring of love and support from the members of the Beth Jacob upon the birth of our precious daughter, Miya, last June.

It was also an honour to be a part of the Beth Jacob professional staff and clergy. A reflection of the community, these individuals proved to be caring and good people who I had the pleasure of serving with throughout my time here.

After receiving the news in early March that Beth Jacob would not be renewing my contract, I had no idea that other opportunities would present themselves soon after. I was preparing for a difficult year. However, as this door closed, another one opened shortly after. As I now prepare to begin a new chapter in my life as cantor of Congregation Neveh Shalom in Portland, Oregon, I am filled with great excitement yet also filled with sadness. Saying goodbye to dear friends is not easy. Saying goodbye to a community that has been our community for almost eight years is not easy. Michèle and I are comforted by all the words of support we have received from so many members of the community.

Just as I had no idea that I would move to Hamilton, I had no idea that I would leave Hamilton and move to Portland. It seems like I have made God laugh once again. But, just as eight years ago, God has not just laughed but also presented a path, a door. Michèle, Miya, and I are opening that door.

Thank you to the Beth Jacob family and the warm community of Hamilton.

- The family of Edith Petigorsky, z"l.

It has been a fantastic year of learning and fun!

Thank you to all our teachers, guest speakers, synagogue staff, education committee members, volunteers, parents and students! See you all in September!

At Beth Jacob we offer both weekly classes, which focus on the understanding of Judaism, and experiential opportunities which focus on the doing of Judaism.

Our school meets on Wednesdays from 4:30 to 6:15 p.m. September through May. During this time, children from Kindergarten through Grade 8 learn with Morah Gila, Morah Margalit and Mrs. Fay Schmerling. Our curriculum's focus is on teaching our students to read and write Hebrew, understand and recite prayers, and about Jewish holidays and Jewish history, with a particular focus on the family histories of members of Hamilton's Jewish community. There will be more singing, dancing, crafting and baking. We will also have special guest teachers who will introduce us to new ideas and exciting new topics.

This past year, our students participated in multiple family-focused Shabbat morning services. From leading prayers to carrying the Torah, to preparing the weekly sermon, the students were the true leaders. We strive to develop the children's independence, competence and confidence in their Jewish activity, not solely their understanding of it.

Next year's new offerings include an intensive Hebrew Language program, and a post-Bnai Mitzvah volunteer opportunity program which will allow students experience volunteering with various organizations throughout Hamilton, both within and outside of our Jewish community. These hours can count towards the high school curriculum requirement for community involvement.

Children who are not enrolled in our Hebrew school are welcome to attend Shabbat and Jewish holiday services and events.

The school's growth, along with the enthusiasm and commitment of our families, inspires our entire congregation. To register for any of the above learning opportunities, or if you have questions, please contact Rina Rodak at school@bethjacobsynagogue.ca or call 905-522-1351.

BETH JACOB SYNAGOGUE PRESENTS

Spice up your life
with BONNIE STERN

Bonnie Stern, who for decades operated her cooking school in Toronto, is a self-proclaimed “social worker in the kitchen”, helping others cook easy, delicious and nutritious meals for themselves and their families. When she first opened her school, Stern faced some adversity as chefs were not regarded with high esteem. Nonetheless, Stern proved sceptics wrong, channelling her educational background to develop her career. Her degree in English from the University of Toronto gave her the confidence to establish herself as a cook, a journalist, an author and a business woman.

Stern’s talents exceed the kitchen as she now hosts private cooking events and corporate classes, leads culinary trips and sends out a monthly newsletter with recipes, restaurant recommendations and information about her monthly book club. At her book club, Bonnie brings readers and authors together over dinners that are related to the theme of the book, combining both her passion for literature and her love of cooking. She keeps in touch with students and readers with her weekly column in the National Post and through social media on Twitter, Instagram and Facebook. With titles under her belt such as cook, teacher, writer, author and business woman, Bonnie Stern has gone above and beyond to redefine what it means to be a chef.
