Join us at a Scholar-in-Residence weekend with

Dr. Alan Cooper Friday and Saturday Nov. 4-5, 2011 speaking throughout the weekend on the topic,

What's so heroic about our biblical heroes and heroines?

Dr. Alan Cooper, the Elaine Ravich Professor of Jewish Studies and provost of The Jewish Theological Seminary and a former professor in the Religious Studies department at McMaster University, will discuss the question of how one can reconcile the representation of our ancestors as ideal types with the apparent moral realism of the stories themselves and how their characters can be seen as guides for our own lives?

Friday, November 4

5:30 pm Kabbalat Shabbat followed by a congregational dinner.

7:45 pm: Dr. Cooper will deliver a drash on the topic, Rebecca, Isaac, Jacob and Esau

Please call the office at 905-522-1351 to reserve for the congregational dinner. Cost: $25/adult, $12/child age 5-12, children under 5, free.

Family $72 includes two parents and their children.

Saturday, November 5

Dr. Cooper will deliver the morning drash on the topic, Abraham, Lot, Sarah, and Hagar followed by a special Kiddush sponsored by Maureen & Jerome Bergart in memory of the late Elmer Farkas, z"l and celebrating the completion of the Richter Chapel stained glass windows.

Mincha at 5:30 pm followed by Seudah Shlishit with Dr. Cooper speaking on the topic, Moses, Aaron and the Golden Calf

Thank you to the Beth Jacob Sisterhood for making this program possible

Your values. Your tradition. Your shul.

a word from THE RABBI

"Me, too?"

Rabbi Dan Selsberg

If you're anything like me, you recently spent a lot of time in shul on Yom Kippur, confessing guilt for sins you didn't commit. (The first part is true: I saw you spending the time at shul, but I'm only guessing about the second part.) One might wonder about the worthiness of this practice: didn't I do enough to feel guilty about, without adding guilt for things I didn't do? Isn't this more like a satire of Judaism, where guilt is piled upon guilt in a cascade of irrelevant words?

Not really. (You knew I'd answer that way, otherwise I wouldn't have asked the question.) First of all, if one looks at what we were confessing to, it wasn't all murder, adultery, and the other big-ticket sins that you're really, really not supposed to do, and that I hope you aren't guilty of. Most of the confession is about what we say. It's a big decision to commit a serious sin, but we sin with our words all the time, we're subtly told on Yom Kippur, and if you're going to talk (and you do, remember, I was up there watching you during services!), you are going to use the wrong words, at the wrong time, to the wrong person. It will happen, and if we spent enough time thinking about it, we'd realize just how often it happens, and what a bad effect it has on our lives. In reality, we were standing there confessing sins that, whether we realize it or not, we did do at one point or another.

I learned all of this from my teacher, Rabbi Brad Artson. But he goes one step further, into the area that does seem like an irrelevant cascade of words: the stuff that I really didn't do. That, of course, is why we confess in the first person plural—we sinned, not I sinned, and it's the we consciousness that's important not only on Yom Kippur, but throughout the year. We tend to think of ourselves as independent beings. We are not. We are the products of a complex arrangement of many, many things: just, for a moment, think of the shul bulletin you're reading right now. Think of what went into it: the trees, the ink, the Canada post workers and trucks, the fuel that drives them, the printing plant and the resources that drive it, the expert volunteer editors who proofed the bulletin, the computers on which it was composed, the Chinese factories that produced the computers, the ships that brought the computers to these shores, all that before we tell the story of how we (or our ancestors) got to this country in the first place...

We are not totally autonomous beings. We are independent and responsible beings, true, but we are part of a larger story, and the Jewish tradition (part of the larger story of which we are a part) insists that we recognize this. Did I murder or adulter? No. But am I a part of a collective of people who are guilty of these sins? I am. You are too. What goes on in our society, we influence in ways great and small. That's part of the message of our faith: know that you are part of a larger story, and recognize the stake you have in it. We need to live that reality day after day, and to realize that every decision we make affects the world: think of what brought this bulletin to your door. Think of what brought you to this moment. Think of how our decisions affect the world in ways we rarely think of. Think of how to make our decisions, and our affect on the world, more in line with what God would have us do. That is the mentality that we cultivate not only on the High Holy Days, but throughout the year, day and night. It is not easy to realize our true place and the true extent of the impact of our actions, but it is part of our calling as a holy people, as Jews. This year, we must be mindful of the impact of our words and actions. Maybe next year, we'll have even fewer sins on that list that we find in ourselves.

a word from THE CO-PRESIDENTS

The High Holidays are now behind us and we would like to thank everyone who helped make them so warm and enlightening. Yashar Koach to the Rabbi, the Cantor, the honours and seating committees, the ushers and security team, the entire office staff and all of you who attended and participated in the services.

Ira Greenspoon and Cindy Richter

Even though the High Holiday season is behind us, the messages that were shared during those days should continue to resonate and impact the way we conduct ourselves in the coming years.

We are asking you to participate, contribute and invest in Beth Jacob. We have come a very long way in the past six years as a congregation. We now have an amazing rabbi who is respected and loved by everyone who spends time with him, whether during simchas or unfortunately, during sad times. We have a cantor whose creativity is respected throughout the cantorial community. Our religious school is growing again. Six years ago we davened in the old chapel, which was too hot in the summer and even hotter in the winter. Now we have a new chapel and a new entrance that is warm, welcoming and open to all. And whereas it used to be hit or miss whether we would have minyans, our success rate at having minyans today is high, thanks to all those who come to be "counted" at morning or evening minyans and continue the tradition.

We have created a foundation to build upon and move forward but the work continues. Now we are asking you to participate, to contribute and invest in Beth Jacob.

How can you participate? by coming out for minyan, attending Shabbat services, buying a lottery ticket, selling lottery tickets or chanting a haftorah.

How can you contribute? by sponsoring a Kiddush luncheon, becoming a sponsor of our annual Big Night, paying your dues early in the year or monthly, agreeing to a voluntary dues increase to a level you are comfortable with.

One of the biggest challenges we face is our aging population. We have come to rely on the generosity and commitment of our senior members who continue to carry a larger part of our financial burden than they should. We would love to be able to say to our senior members "Thank you for your years of support; we will now reduce your burden. But all we can say at this time is "Thank you for everything you have done for us and thank you for your continued support". To make this right we need some of our other members to step up and take some of the responsibility for maintaining the financial stability of Beth Jacob. Everyone counts. Everyone can participate and everyone can contribute. We need you to contribute your time, energy and invest in Beth Jacob.

Let's all of us continue to build upon the foundation that has been established. With your participation, contribution and investment we will ensure that Beth Jacob meets our needs as a community.

Ira and Cindy

Peter Levitt
speaking on the topic

The Sinking of the Zamzam & subsequent events

Sunday, December 4, 2011

Services at 9:00 a.m. Breakfast & talk at 9:30 a.m.

70 years ago, in the spring of 1941, before the United States had entered World War II, the neutral Egyptian passenger ship, Zamzam, with 140 US citizens aboard was shelled and sunk by the German raider, the Atlantis, in the South Atlantic Ocean. Six year old Peter Levitt, his mother Kathleen and three year old sister, Wendy, all UK citizens, were on board the stricken ship. The fascinating story of the rescue and survival of the passengers and the internment (of the non-Americans) in Germany reads like fiction. In his talk Peter will describe his personal and his mother's experiences and adventures and eventual exchange though Turkey to Palestine 18 months later, and also the political significance of the event

After serving his national service, primarily in Egypt, Peter studied economics at Cambridge University and qualified as a Chartered Accountant. In 1969 he migrated from the UK to Canada where he worked as an investment advisor for 5 years before joining the Federal Government as an officer evaluating potential investments in slow growth regions. Since retiring Peter and his wife, Sheena have done a lot of travelling, primarily to Europe, and last summer they crossed the Atlantic on the Queen Mary 2 retracing Peter's childhood voyage to Canada.

OUT OF THE COLD

During the recent Chagim, we have deeply analyzed our lives and are looking for meaningful ways to fulfill the promises for which we have prayed and spoken.

Hamilton Out of the Cold is a program that addresses local poverty by feeding dinner to the needy and homeless. Our Jewish community hosts Tuesday night which is one of the nine sites operating from November to March. We are self-funded, cook, serve and clean up after delicious meals, and staff the kindest volunteers ever assembled.

There are opportunities at OOTC to initiate the deeds to exceed our speech. Actions are what will make the difference!

Needed:

- Morning kitchen sous-chefs, 10 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.
- A soup chef, twice monthly. Recipes and prepping provided.
- Organize a food drive (specific grocery/sundry items requested)
- Collect warm adult winter coats, hats, gloves, scarves
- Toiletries: toothpaste, toothbrushes, lotions, shampoo/conditioner. (Place in hamper in shul's lower foyer.)
- Donate to the Beth Jacob Out of the Cold fund.
- Occasional shoppers

Finally, we would especially like to thank retiring Joanne Manishen for executing the role of volunteer coordinator for 11 OOTC seasons! Joanne's compassion, creativity and comedic relief have made hundreds of volunteers relaxed in roles that are initially uncomfortable to many. Joanne always taught that dignity and respect for our guests was essential to be productive in our mission to influence change. Yasher Koach, Joanne! We are very fortunate to welcome back Lila Strub as volunteer coordinator who will share the role with McMaster student Behrad Garmsiri.

Off to a great start, join us!
